St. Paddy's madness

Human, but not a hater

The tiny and frail girl huddled close to her mother as the box car, filled with men and women worn by days of cramped journey and despairing of what lay ahead, moved through the Hungarian countryside.

Managing to struggle her way to the door, she peeked through the opening and could see the beauty and grandeur of far-off mountains....the Carpathians.

Little Frances Fabri, just 14 but quite aware that her life and those of her parents huddled near her, were about to undergo a terrible, unknown change, thought back on the days just before the German soldiers had come to their residence and taken them off like thousands of other Hungarian Jews.

For the next 10 months, Frances and hundreds of thousands of other Jewish people would be witness to and part of unspeakable horrors, tortures that would scar the mind and body for the rest of their days.

But Frances would live through the concentration camps of Auschwitz, the work camps of World War II Germany, and live to speak about it.

Like hundreds of thousands of others, she survived the death camps and the work camps ... Auschwitz, Dachau and Bergen-Belsen. But some six million others paid the ultimate price.

Mrs. Fabri, a diminutive little lady now in her late 40s, recalled the trauma, pain and horror of being driven like animals into crowded box cars, forced to travel across Hungary for three days and then herded into the foreboding jungle of barracks at Auschwitz.

"On the morning of the fourth day, the box cars came to a sudden halt," Mrs. Fabri calmly stated to the sociology class at Amador Valley High Thursday. "We looked out and saw barracks for as long as the eye could see."

Asked later if she were prejudice now against Germans, Mrs. Fabri replied, "Look, I wouldn't be human if I wasn't but I cannot blame the young Germans. I cannot blame the entire nation. I am not a hater.

Tom and Gil-Won (Song) Cuseck

Groom came from that other Dublin

DUBLIN — This St. Patrick's Day was a good day for Koreans as well as the Irish when Gil-Won Song from Seoul and Tom Cuseck from Dublin, Ireland chose that day to be married in Dublin, California.

The saint's day and sister city were chosen for three reasons.

Since the bride is still enrolled at Oregon State University, it would have been less convenient for her to travel to Ireland for the ceremony. The day and place are affiliated with Irish background. And the priest who married the couple is a friend of the groom's family.

Father Thomas O'Shaughnessy, S.M.A. performed the wedding ceremony yesterday at St. Raymond's Church.

The couple met four years ago at Oregon State. He has graduated and works at the Agricultural Institute in Dublin, Ireland. He will be returning to that country in April. Although he was born in England, Cuseck said he had spent half of his life in Ireland

After completing her studies in June of this year, the bride will rejoin her husband.

The groom's best man was Salahuddin Faruqui from Pakistan.

The maid of honor was Hyuen Suh Paik from Korea.

Custody fight

He's a Moonie, family wants him

DANVILLE — A year and a half ago Johnny Hovard got on a BART train and became a Moonie.

Now his parents sit in court, hoping to get custody of their son for 30 days. They join other parents seeking to isolate and "deprogram" their children away from Rev. Sun Myung Moon's Unification Church.

"All he does now is sell flowers to raise money for Moon," his father said.

During that BART ride to San Francisco, Johnny, in his 20s, was approached by a "Moonie" — a member of the Rev. Moon's church — and agreed to go to dinner at a San Francisco Franklin Street house.

Later, he went to a Moonie camp in Boonville for several weekends, but told his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Hovard, 454 St. Regis Drive, he would return soon.

"He kept saying he was coming home, but he didn't," his father said. In the 1½ years since Johnny became a Moonie, his parents have seen him three times.

"We didn't recognize him when we saw him again," said Hovard. "He was pale and glassy-eyed, had lost a lot of weight and he was constantly smiling."

Johnny isn't isolated from his family — he spent this last weekend with his parents; brothers Chris, Bill and Peter; and his sister Heidi.

"He's changed considerably," said his father. "His personality is different, and his scope of thinking is narrow."

Friends and neighbors of the Hovards have written to legislators seeking investigation ofRev. Moon's group. "They (legislators) haven't responded at all," said Hovard.

"It's frightening for young people to be proselytized into what I think is a sinister organization," said Hovard, who described his son as sensitive and idealistic.

Pleasanton plumber indicted

A six-count indictment charging attempted income tax evasion and signing false tax returns was returned against a Pleasanton plumber by a federal grand jury Thursday.

The indictment alleges that James B. Slayton, 60, owner of Jim's Plumbing Service, underreported gross receipts from his business by $11,290 in 1970, $12,737 in 1971 and $28,277 in 1972 and attempted to evade additional income taxes totaling $10,967 for those years.

Slayton could draw a possible maximum of 15 years in prison and $45,000 fine if convicted on all counts.

Youths to show livestock

Twelve Valley students will be exhibiting animals in the 31st annual Junior Grand National Livestock Exposition, Rodeo and Horse Show April 1 - 13.

Four - H Club members exhibiting under the direction of advisor Daniel Borba are: Chris Benevenes, Michael Jones, Tom Jones, Sandee Mathews, Phillip St. Pierre and Tiffany Velarde.

Teachers Ronald Furtado of Livermore High and Phillip Pierpont of Amador will assist their Future Farmers of America students in exhibiting. FFA members taking part are: Debbie Sparks, Chris Benevenes, Janeen and Teresa Jensen, Melanie Rapp and Kathy Silva.

The local entrants are among some 2,000 young people entering a record 3,500 animals in five overall categories: beef cattle, dairy cattle, sheep, swine and goats.

Mini parade set Saturday

The "Good Times" parade is returning to Pleasanton!

Saturday.

For maybe 10 minutes or so around 10 a.m.

Actually, the "parade" will be two vintage cars in length and contain a half dozen or so Pleasanton Lions, including Sid Leon, the club's candidate for Mayor of the Valley.

The last time Leon went out in public he had a dress on and tried to pass himself off as Maid of Pleasanton.

Darn near frightened a train-load of visitors to death.

The parade will start at 10 at the BJ Corral and end there about 10 minutes later with a Keg o' Beer Reception for Leon. Townspeople are invited and need not be afraid of the Lions. They'll be growling on behalf of Leon's candidacy.

Horse kicks Pleasanton man to death

LIVERMORE — A 57-year-old Pleasanton man found dead in front of horse stalls at a ranch on Vallecitos Road early yesterday had apparently been kicked to death by a horse, sheriff's deputies reported.

The body of Jose Alamillo, 57, of 4552 Augustine St. was found by a ranchhand at 7820 Vallecitos Road about 7 a.m. Thursday. Deputies said Alamillo had been dead several hours.

Alamillo, a construction worker, owned several horses and boarded them at the Vallecitos Road ranch. Deputies said a horse closest to the body was kicking wildly when they arrived. It was not known if the animal belonged to the victim.

An investigation into the incident is continuing.

Doctor's in but nurses are out

If you see a white - clad lady carrying a skeleton down the hall, or laying a foam breast on the cafeteria table, don't panic — it's probably just a Livermore Adult School nursing teacher in search of a classroom.

Nurses Cleola Duncan and Anne Spanier have been turning out top - ranked LVN's (Licensed Vocational Nurses) for the past eight years through an Adult School program. Never in that time have they had a classroom to call their own since 1970, when the Veterans Hospital gave them use of a big room in a building condemned the next year because it wasn't earthquake safe.

Yesterday, the 12 students in Duncan's class watched a film of an operation on a ruptured uterus. They were in one of their more comfortable "classrooms" — a corner of the Valley Memorial Hospital cafeteria which had been sectioned off with folding doors that didn't quite meet at the corner.

The projector, borrowed from VMH, was mounted on a cafeteria table. Squeezing in next to stacks of plastic chairs, the students crowded around the table in order to see the movie being projected onto the wall. Fortunately, gray weather precluded much sunlight leaking past the - thin drapes.

Sometimes the students aren't so lucky. Desperately overcrowded themselves (the hospital public relations office is now located in the chapel), Valley Memorial staff sometimes have to use the makeshift cafeteria room for meetings.

In that case, the nursing students — who spent the morning since 7 a.m. working in the hospital — hold their afternoon class in the cafeteria among the clattering trays.

Or, for a bit of peace, they retreat to the chilly outdoor eating area next to the hospital's rear parking lot where they study anatomy on the picnic tables.

Not that it's Valley Memorial's fault, Duncan emphasizes. "They have gone out of their way to provide us with facilities," she says. "It's the Livermore School District's problem."

The local Adult School operates the only LVN program in the area. There are women from Tracy, Hayward, Fremont, Dublin, San Ramon, Pleasanton and Livermore in the Class of '78.

The rugged LVN training covers three semesters. First and third semester are based at Valley Memorial. Mondays, students are in class from 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., whenever they can find a classroom in which to meet.

Family wants him at home

Johnny attended Oregon State University for 1½ years, then traveled extensively throughout the United States before becoming a Moonie, his father said.

Hovard said Johnny willingly went to Boonville. "They're very subtle; they didn't even discuss religion at first."

He said he was somewhat consoled that other families are in court seeking custody of their sons and daughters.

All have been attending the hearings which began last Wednesday in San Francisco. Johnny is expected to testify today or Friday, Hovard said.

"Johnny thinks what we're doing is wrong. He says he's over 21, and should have the right to make his own decisions and that he's part of a good organization," Hovard said.

"Our whole family is concerned. We want Johnny back."

Beer buffs boast, bluff in Dublin

DUBLIN — Self abuse prevailed here yesterday as some two dozen masochists of both sexes beat their way through the sixth annual Green Beer Drinking Contest.

Fun was not had by all.

Ostensibly called each year by the Dublin Chamber of Commerce to honor St. Paddy in Emerald Isle West, the event invariably turns into a test of stamina, skill, perserverance and aptitude.

I won.

This year's fete threw representatives of the Valley's newspapers into a three way heat for title to the "Paper weight" division.

It was the last, and possibly only, such offering.

The Valley's only afternoon paper, the Sparks' Daily Gazette, pitted poor Steve Kious against The Independent's Bob Several and The Times Modesty Forbids.

Modesty took the Sparks' kid by better than a second, downing 12 ounces in a near record 5.9 seconds. Several gulped same for a trailing third place.

- Modesty was awarded a virgin vinyl briefcase and a paper weight.

Chamber sadists also opened the contest to members of the female persuasion this year.

Christine Schnitzer, recreation director at Valley Community Services District, quaffed her 12 ounces to set the record at 4.8 seconds. (But can she conjugate a verb?)

She was not disqualified, even though boasting a bachelor's degree from Slippery Rock State in P nnsylvania.

For her effort, she garnered a bouquet of carnations — green, naturally — and two bottles of champagne (just what she needed).

Prizes, including the Howard Johnson's green beer, were donated by local merchants.

More than 40-year-old Martin Fahey of the "lightweight" division tipped his 32 ounces in 13.2 seconds to take home a case of "Lite" beer and a "soap on a rope."

Less than 40-year-old Bill Frey took grand champion, heavyweight title after downing most of 36 ounces of foamy, flat, green beer in 18.4 seconds.

For his superhuman effort he was awarded a money clip, cuff links and tie tack, serving tray, battery lantern, gift certificates — and a case of beer.

Services are pending.

Poor but gutsy Ray Larson finished last at 119.6 seconds after most of the 15 heavyweight contestants either failed to compete, or threw in the towel.

They gave him a baby bottle of beer.

Contestants repeatedly refused to comment on a "Tequila Toss" for Cinco de Mayo, or the Columbus Day "Red Wine Drinking" blasts.

Nomadic nursing a grind

Some Sunday nights have found the whole class on the phone trying to find out where their class will meet the next morning. Currently they meet in the Carnegie Building basement for their Monday sessions.

Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, they're "on the floor" at VMH from 7 a.m. to noon getting clinical experience.

After lunch the classroom hunt resumes.

The middle semester of training is based at the Vets Hospital. Here, they use a tiny room jammed with a gurney, 15 desks and little else. They even have a cabinet in which to store some of the syringes, models, charts and equipment they're supposed to use for training.

When the time comes to practice using bedpans, giving bedbaths and handling bedridden patients they use the Red Cross facility in Livermore — for a fee. The real challenge is finding enough space to practice using wheelchairs and crutches.

"We've been re - accredited for three years," Duncan reports, "but I was told this program would never have been accredited by the state in the first place if it had started out in these kind of facilities."

Meanwhile, Livermore Adult School graduates have always placed first, second or third in the state test, measured against some 60 LVN classes throughout California.

A Dublin student, Marlene Kammerman, led a group of colleagues in presenting their complaints to the Livermore school board Tuesday night. Superintendent of Schools Leo Croce responded by telling the school board the students had a "fantastic" facility at the Vets Hospital although there was some difficulty finding space around VMH.

Roy Isler, head of the Valley's Regional Occupation Program, said the new ROP building behind Valley Memorial Hospital, used to train nurses' aides, "sits idle three days a week" and could be used by the LVN's.

However, the official ROP schedule shows their building in full use Tuesday and Thursday and in intermittent use the rest of the week by nurses' aide students.

Meanwhile, Adult School principal Jim McCarty said yesterday he had not yet looked at the ROP schedule but was planning to meet with Isler and the LVN teachers soon to work on a new schedule for the ROP program.

Lack of classroom space for daytime classes, said McCarty, is a chronic problem. Although most adult classes are in the evening, the "16 or 18 daytime classes are all over town — in the Presbyterian Church, Methodist Church, Springtown, the Barn, Rec Center, even the Hacienda Convalescent Hospital."

Water unit mulls idea on cutback

A proposal to use "grey" water, such as bathwater or soapy dishwater, to flush toilets instead of using fresh water was made at Wednesday's meeting of the Zone 7 Flood Control and Water Conservation District.

Director Robert Pearson said such a system, if adopted universally, would save great amounts of fresh water, increase the percentage of total dissolved solids in sewage, and decrease the flows to sewer plants.

Amador teachers set strike date but hold details

(The following is a statement from the Amador Valley Secondary Educators Association regarding a strike date being set, but not revealed, at a meeting of the AVSEA's representative council on Thursday.)

High school teachers today (Thursday) set a strike date for Amador, Dublin, Foothill and Valley high schools. By unanimous vote the representative council of the Amador Valley Secondary Educators Association chose a date on which to enact the 143 to 31 strike vote cast by the general membership last month.

More than 150 teachers will be ringing doorbells Sunday (March 20) to answer local residents' questions about why they have no contract eight months into the contract year.

Each teacher will have leaflets to hand homeowners stating the following: "Teachers want to keep the local high schools open. You may help prevent a strike by taking a few minutes to read this leaflet."

"We feel that it is urgent that taxpayers get a clear understanding of the situation in our schools," said Dave Woolworth, AVSEA president.

Negotiations had dragged on for a full year without a settlement. Frustration is high and morale is low among teachers and obviously this affects the students in the classroom.

Woolworth pointed out that the administration's reaction Wednesday of AVSEA's offer to, in effect, settle the board's last offer, left little option for the teachers.

AVSEA and the administration are seeking fact - finding by the State Conciliation Service on the issues of binding arbitration, salary and agency shop.

"However, the timing of the fact - finding process could extend beyond the contract year under question," Woolworth said.

He added that the same process has just been completed in the Pleasanton Elementary School District. "Teachers will not finish this year without a contract," Woolworth said.

Teachers in the community Sunday will be wearing identifying arm bands. They will also be available to answer questions at their crisis center, telephone 846-0272.

(This concluded the AVSEA news release.)

Club of the week

Birthday for Camp Fire Girls

The Camp Fire Girls celebrate 67 action - packed years this week, a milestone that dates back to a town pageant in Vermont. Initiated by Dr. and Mrs. Luther Gulick of Maine, the youth service organization got its start when girls in Tetfor, Vermont asked to participate in the city's 150th anniversary.

With the help of William Langdon, the Gulicks set up three ranks of achievement for the Camp Fire Girls, prompting an Indian lore specialist to create parallel activities with the Boy Scouts.

Now a national organization, Camp Fire Girls number in the thousands. Operating under the creed "Worship God, seek beauty, give service, pursue knowledge, be trustworthy, hold on to health, glorify work, be happy," the girls can join as early as the first grade and until they are out of high school.

Once a girl has been in Camp Fire for two years, she picks a special name for herself, a custom dating back to the American Indians. Often Indian mothers waited many years before naming a child, until he showed a particular skill. A name won this way was a source of pride, and today each girl puts her name in symbols on an Indian headband.

For service projects, the Camp Fire Girls have been involved in everything from donating time to the valley recycling centers to delivering handmade valentines and cookies to rest homes, pediatric wards and veterans hospitals.

Let's hope they're around for another 67 years!

"Lazy Daisies" Blue Birds at Fairlands Elementary School in Pleasanton, certainly don't live up to their name. Among the youngest members of Camp Fire Girls, the Daisies raised enough money to present their school with a tree on St. Patrick's Day. Pictured with principal Gene Vargas, the Daisies include Vickie Krajnick, Amy Pennington, Mari Weinzheimer, Stacey Bik, Cathey Jones Kristen Schiel, Dede Johansen and Stacey Anthony.

Prison talk

That lengthy "report to the public" by the commander of Santa Rita Prison was surprising, even refreshing. It is at least a start in the right direction when the man closest to that terrible place can relate his problems to the people.

So too the critique offered by the Deputy Sheriff's Association of Alameda County; subjective, perhaps, but still an interesting view, from an excellent vantage point.

We will bypass for now the coincidence of these two sources generating their own first - ever public comment, on the same day, and with much the same thrust. Even if all the deputy sheriffs of Alameda County decide now to speak out, their message is one we should hear.

But what a message! "Don't look at me," they seem to be telling us. "Blame the system!" Blame even the board of supervisors, or the taxpayers, the movers and shakers of all things fiscal. Including the millions needed to replace Santa Rita with a modern detention and rehabilitation center.

We taxpayers accept that responsibility. A civilized society must respond to the criminal, the outcast. Building a fine new detention center is maybe half the battle, or less.

More important is the attitude of those who staff such a place; their training, their motivation. We could build a penal palace (and some jails are just that) but it would achieve nothing if those in charge of that palace still look upon themselves as masters, the inmates as slaves.

We found no reference to that — the deficiency of some prison guards — in either of those carefully - worded "reports to the people on Santa Rita."

We commend the deputy sheriffs for candid talk about misguided county supervisors; we look forward to more of that courage when the deputies review their own role in "the sad saga of Santa Rita Prison."

People and porno

It all began when "a concerned parent" in Livermore brought to this newspaper's attention the display of "sexually explicit greeting cards" that were being displayed near the front door of a local delicatessen.

We printed the complaint of Joe and Eloise Alexander, but only after first confirming the extent of one store's "obscene literature." We also checked with city attorneys in Livermore and Pleasanton to learn, in effect, that "there isn't much local ordinances can do about pornography ... it's up to the people."

Well, the people responded, this time. They circulated petitions, suggested a boycott of the store, while also working closely with that shop's owner in search of some answer.

Within a week the owners of Napoli Delicatessen had seen the light; the offending cards were removed away from the front door ; the peoples' pornography campaign was halted.

Which tells us that a community can set "moral standards" when enough of us are willing to speak out, and back those words with positive action.

So start leading!

Congratulations, Mayors Tirsell and Philcox.

Now get to work!

You asked for this leadership role. You knew what the office involves. You've already experienced the pitfalls, the politics, the frustrations. Being a council member isn't easy these days; being a mayor is even tougher; being an effective council member and mayor is a back breaker.

But it's your back, your council, your city. And your city staff, to guide, to sooth sometimes, and to boot in the tail, sometimes.

All yours. Pipelines, waste discharges, air pollution, industrial growth, enough tax revenues to keep the city moving ... These are also concerns each of us share with you. But, for the most part, taxpayers and editors do little more than criticize, ask tiresome questions, make stupid suggestions. That's our privilege.

We expect a great deal from our public servants; for some reason, we demand that much more again from our mayor, or the president of the local board. We demand leadership.

Right now this Valley could use a large dose of leadership, seasoned with logic, sweetened with communication ... the kind even the press and public can understand.

There are about 120,000 of us sharing these several Valley communities and rural expanses; 85,000 of that total reside in just two cities. That's where most of the problems start; that's where many of the answers must originate.

And that's where you come in, Mayor Tirsell, Mayor Philcox.

Don't spend too much time celebrating your latest ascension. Your constituents are all floundering here on earth.

There goes BART

The board of directors for Bay Area Rapid Transit has now officially determined to stop talking about trains that will go 85 miles per hour, or that would pass a given point every two minutes, or that might even reach way out here in the East Bay boonies.

All of which were promised way back in 1962, when the BART boosters were telling stories as tall as the $792 million bond issue they wanted us to approve, the beginning of that two billion dollar venture.

So much for fairy tales. Long live Bay Area politics! And have you heard the one about reviving downtown Oakland by building a $35 million freeway down Grove Shafter and ...

FOCUS/Ballot 'game'

Building an image

Some additional comment, as promised last Sunday, on election ballot designations....

It seems, at least in Alameda County, that candidates for public office can place in their ballot statements pretty much what they want.

But, in reading over an article sent by the County Registrar of Voters office, I find ballot designation is one of statewide concern — and sometimes the butt of jokes. The only things checked for by the Alameda County office are adherence to the maximum number of words (200), reference to party affiliation or vulgar or obscene statements. However, if one is so inclined to inflate his position, past record and prospects, not to mention altering one's true age and family status, there's hardly any chance one will get caught.

The same apparently applies for ballot designations. As Bruce Bolinger, a consultant to the Legislature's joint committee for the revision of the elections code, has stated, "Candidates work strenously to conjure up the most effective designations— whether accurate or not— while opponents make every effort to prevent them."

Election officials describe ballot designations as "The world's greatest lying contest," "basically unworkable," "hypocritical," and "pro-incumbent."

The system of occupational designations was first used in 1932 and it worked fairly well. However, there has been a growing realization of the importance of these designations. Candidates, thus, give considerable thought to the most effective ballot designation they can use.

There are several strategies candidates employ in choosing a ballot designation, including:

—Identify with the office sought and demonstrate relevant experience.

—Use the most prestigious words possible, including euphemisms and out'n out exaggerations.

—Identify with popular causes and movements (Comments Bolinger, Fred Furth's use of "anti-trust attorney" for a San Francisco senate seat last year was probably calculated to attract voters opposed to big business in that heavily-Democratic district).

—If unelectable, publicize unpopular causes (i.e., "Socialist Workers Spokesperson," "Gay Feminist Activitist," "LaRaza Editor")

—Use multiple designations ("Legislator, Farmer", "Educator, Counselor and Businessman," one candidate in Beverly Hills recently insisted on being listed as "Jewish Mother").

It is obvious that there are now wide-spread abuses of both statements of qualifications as well as ballot designations. Even here in Alameda County. Perhaps it is time for an enterprising community group, club or a group of elected officials (the Supervisors!) to bring the subject to the forefront.

Letters to the Times

City of Dublin

Editor, The Times:

There are a number of facts that should be brought out to the citizens of Dublin that show beyond a shadow of a doubt that Dublin should be incorporated.

1. Dublin has a dynamic commercial establishment that exceeds both Livermore and Pleasanton in consumer sales and sales tax revenues.

2. Dublin has been placed under Pleasanton's Sphere of Influence and this means that Pleasanton is to speak for us or will annex Dublin unless something is done to prevent it.

3. There are valley-wide Agencies now and there are bound to be additional government agencies established in the future and the Town of Dublin has no way to be represented unless it forms a government of its own.

4. Dublin generates nearly $2,000,000 in sales taxes (not counting real estate taxes) for the County and this represents more than twice the money needed to provide the necessary municipal type services to the Community.

5. The more than $1,000,000 in surplus revenue should be used to lower the real estate taxes in Dublin. This could mean a reduction of at least 15% to 20%.

Now is the time to incorporate Dublin into a small Town. All municipal services requiring technical staffing and equipment should be contracted to outside agencies, such as the County for police services and building inspections and VCSD for sewer, water and fire services. Planning, zoning, licensing and other "political" types of decisions should be made by the citizens of Dublin with their own government that is responsive to their needs.

Next Monday, 7:30 p.m. at the Shannon Center in Dublin, the first of a series of meetings will be held to organize committees to study the different phases of becoming incorporated. Anyone should come and be a part of the planning and organizing of a new Town of Dublin.

Support teachers

Editor, The Times:

The teacher's position in the Amador schools dispute is clear. They are asking for a 4.8% cost of living increase, a moderate enough figure in view of the double-digit inflation in the past few years, and it is a compromise figure only slightly above that offered by the board.

In addition, the teachers are asking for binding arbitration, which is simply a means of assuring that the contract they enter into will be fairly enforced. Without binding arbitration, the board becomes the judge and jury in disputes over a contract that has already been negotiated. Limited binding arbitration amounts to the same thing; the district decides what can be arbitrated.

The board has muddled the salary issue by taking away salary schedule column advancement, so that they could claim to offer it to teachers in negotiations.

Likewise, superintendent Newlin and the board have clouded the binding arbitration issue by suggesting that it takes away local control ... Teachers are community servants, and many in the Amador district have been here for years and have proven themselves with capable and trusted service.

Teachers should be sensitive to the needs and criticisms of their community, but the community should also support teachers when their position is just.

SRV elections

To The Times:
(Attention — Al Fischer)

Now that the elections are over, I think that this note is appropriate.

I would like to thank you and the Times for your interest in the San Ramon Valley elections, your fair and objective reporting, and for your support. It all helped.

See you at some Board meetings.

Ron Harris

Evaluating Supt.

Editor, The Times:

Wayne R. Barnes, with a recent letter to the editor, left us in a decidedly bemused state. Mr. Barnes commented "... I have polled all the members of the Amador District High School Board and we are in total agreement in that we believe Dr. Newlin is doing an excellent job for the district. ..."

Fact: Dr. Newlin hired Fox guards to protect the schools from the teachers at a cost of $1000 for one weekend. These guards are now on standby, to be placed in the schools at Newlin's discretion. Fact: Local school administrator and teacher relationships are becoming increasingly strained.

Fact: Teachers are working without a contract. Fruitless negotiations have continued for over a year. Fact: Teacher morale is at an alltime low.

Fact: Over 150 teachers signed a letter expressing no confidence in the superintendent: Fact: The teachers are solidly united in their demand for a fair and just contract. Can this many teachers be wrong?

Fact: The Amador Valley High School District, as never before in the history of this district, is on the verge of a debilitating strike. Fact: Newlin as the highest level administrator must stand accountable.

If this is Mr. Barnes studied opinion of excellence, it will indeed be unfortunate for students and teachers alike if Dr. Newlin should ever rise to the level of doing a truly outstanding job.

round the town

It came as quite a shock to me. I'm certain most of you reacted the same way.

"HOWARD HUGHES NEVER WAS A BILLIONAIRE." That's what the headlines said. Furthermore, a final audit of Howard's estate is expected to reveal "something less than $168 million" in the old sock.

Now, there's little doubt that $168 million is still a tidy sum. Why, a person could buy seven professional football franchies with that kind of money, or almost seven. But we are not playing games here folks, no sirree

Howard Hughes' billions had become a benchmark of American high finance. The standard of free enterprise. The goal of every struggling millionaire. I mean, what have the Reggie Jacksons and Catfish Hunters of this nation got to look forward to if it is now revealed that even Howard Hughes, in a lifetime of fast curves and long taters, could not accumulate even one measley billion??

Time was when "Diamond Jim Brady" was the hero of every young American. A man of daring - do, setting himself above God and man. Once he even set himself above gravity, atop some blessed bridge. Jumped in, diamond and all. That was the last we ever saw of Diamond Jim.

My own fortunes were tied to those of John D. Rockefeller. Senior. The man who planted the first family dollar, watched it grow into three generations of millions.

"Your birthday is the same as that of John D. Rockefeller, a very rich man," my dear mother would remind me. No matter that he was maybe 85 years my senior. The month and the day were the same. Sufficient reason to suspect that one prairie-poor kid was somehow going to rise up from the depths of that depression to achieve Rockefellerian heights

Mother missed her guess by a few hundred million. But that isn't the point. John D. was the light at the end of my tunnel. The goal to pull a struggling youth upward and onward. (Later on, Tom Mix would become my hero when I switched my dreams to becoming a full - time cowboy. But that's another fable.)

Psychologists teach us that we need to emulate others, to worship the ground Elizabeth Taylor walks on. Fortunately, Ms Taylor has covered quite a bit of ground in her lifetime, leaving plenty of dirt for the rest of us to worship.

Even our political structure would be in better shape with some of the old - world flavoring. "If Spiro Agnew had been King and Richard Nixon just the president," scholars now advise us, "we could have kept the one and got rid of the other without so much as disturbing the nation's political norm." Too late. We've lost 'em both.

But I digress. The American passion for perfection has long since shifted away from dreams of kings and crowns. Camelot wasn't even a good movie; it was way wide of the mark for one of our presidents.

Denied royal titles, deprived of the saintliness of man (if you discount John Denver and HIS doting president, that is) we are left with but one mold into which we might shape our heroes ...

Money! Not just ordinary cash. But rather lumped into millions ... the stuff of which John P. Morgan was made ... the magic by which Daddy Warbucks might save all of us Orphan Annies in our moment of peril. And Sandy too.

A simple lad in the streets of Harlem ... cursed with all of the misfortunes of a cruel world ... handicapped even with a seven - foot body ... might now raise his head above those huddled masses and declare: "My goal is to be a millionaire with the Baltimore Bullets!" And lo and behold, it is done.

Which is just the trouble. Pretty soon every damned kid from Harlem who happened to measure seven feet was getting his million. The shorter ones settled for baseball; the fat ones went to football. But each for the same million.

"We need a new standard for American youth," the wise men declared. "There has to be something in life worth working for than just another measley million dollar fortune.!"

That's why Howard Hughes was so great. A hero in his own time. An emaciated white boy who worked his way up through Hollywood and several foreign ports to set the new standard for American youth — A BILLIONAIRE!!

And now they tell us it isn't so. $168 million, tops. They've slain our hero. Killed the Golden wooded Goose.

What's left for a seven - foot American youth to look forward to??

MIKE ZAMPA

The Champ

Big names and siren flames seldom interrupt life in Pleasanton. The town's name is itself a conjurer of luxuriant monotony into which glittery characters don't often intrude.

Headliners have been few. Mary Pickford made films here until talking pictures chased her out. Mary Bacon, the lady jockey stopped a few summers back. She left the next day, however, when folks discovered she is better at undressing for Playboy than kicking winners across the finish line.

Of the meager list, none rode tame into town more gracefully than George Foreman, who came in the winter of 1974 as the heavyweight champion of all Kingdom Come.

His gentile humility, surrounded by the commotion attatched to the world's biggest sports title, was a pleasure.

The champ erected a spartan gymnasium on the county fairgrounds, eventually winning a title defense against Ken Norton, and the hearts of a community.

Sad memories to look back upon because time has altered the picture.

Foreman lost the champion's belt Oct. 30, 1974 to Muhammad Ali. He underwent some nettlesome character changes and also lost plenty of admirers.

Meanwhile, the man who stood in George's corner and brightened those dreary training sessions in Pleasanton, collapsed last week with a heart attack.

Dick Sadler, who inherited a raw, hungry Olympic champion and moulded a world title holder, is said to be resting comfortably now in his Hayward home.

Sadler was stricken a week ago Tuesday after a spirited session with the Alameda County Board of Supervisors. Though a veteran fight manager, Sadler is also a businessman. He was strenuously chasing a county contract for his Hayward-based ambulance service just hours before the coronary hit.

From the reports, Dick should recover. That is good. What a sad footnote, though, to a brief but thrilling chapter of Pleasanton history.

Together Dick and George were an entertaining team. Foreman possessed awesome physical talent. He mesmerized folks who crammed into that rickety fairgrounds gymnasium to gawk. Sadler broke them up with jokes and taunts. Kids loved him. Dick would cuff them on the ears, then thrust them in the ring, face-to-kneecap with Foreman.

Sadler afforded special attention for handicap patients who journeyed to the gym from hospital beds.

He honored ex-boxers in the crowd, once illustrious challengers and just broken down pugs, because they were all integral to the sport he cared for.

Sadler worked in a brutal business. It never changed him, however. He's the man who threw open the doors of his Hayward motel to Vietnamese refugees. Also the one who lobbied for retired boxers' pensions.

During George Foreman's Pleasanton days, Sadler was omni-present, his round chubby face topped by a black beret. He was short and squat and so much fun to watch.

Foreman fired Sadler after the title loss to Ali. George blamed his corner for failing to recognize a dime-store gimmick Ali exploited to victory. Muhammad called it "rope-a-dope." Foreman looked upon it as negligence by his handlers.

Fighter and manager parted as friends, Foreman said long afterwards. There comes a time, though, said George, when you need someone else to guide you.

He found an able replacement, New Yorker Gil Clancy. Meanwhile, Sadler turned to his business interests, and remained marginally in boxing.

He's home now battling back from a setback worse than any his fighter ever suffered. And it's time for those who were ever touched by Dick's warmth, to return the favor.

Dr. Joyce Brothers

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I'm being plagued by obscene phone calls. I get angry and frightened. I keep imagining that the lunatic knows where I live and will break into my apartment and harm me. I can't just stop answering the phone because I'm single and if I did, I'd isolate myself from my friends. I had my phone number changed once and I still get calls, although I suspect they're not from the same person. — O.R.

DEAR O.R.: You're not alone in this problem. A recent survey revealed that more than two - thirds of the women in one office had been bothered by obscene phone calls at one period or another. Single women are no more prone to be victims than married women, nor are young women more apt to be bothered than old women. Over 80 per cent of the callers don't know whom they're calling. They just dial and wait for a woman to answer.

Since the calls are made at random, there's no need to fear a personal attack. Usually, these irritating calls are made by males who are themselves frightened and find it impossible to relate to women on a face to face basis. Adolescent males, uncertain of their masculinity, are the most apt to make the calls.

The best thing to do when you receive an obscene call is to hang up as soon as possible. Another trick is to blow a shrill whistle into the receiver. Don't engage in conversation with the caller not even to lecture him. If the calls continue, report them to the phone company. However, you should know that the offense is widespread and few of the offenders are ever caught.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: How can I change my husband's stinginess? He's just impossible. We constantly fight about who spends what — mostly about why I spend so much of his salary on clothes. Actually, I don't spend that much but I do like to buy new things whenever I'm depressed. I was always able to do this when I was living with my parents and I don't see why I can't now. Do you think I can re - educate my husband? — D.N.

DEAR D.N.: You can try, but before you launch into a campaign to alter his behavior, I think it might be wise to examine your own.

There's certainly nothing wrong with buying new clothes if you and your husband can manage to fit them into your budget. What disturbs me a little is that if you rely on buying something whenever you're depressed, you may never discover the real cause of your depression. You may be using buying sprees to hide or gloss over basic problems. This can be dangerous. I suggest that next time you're depressed you take time out to analyze why you're feeling low then talk to your husband or a friend about it before you rush off to the store.

Money and how to spend it are at the top of the list of causes for marital problems. Usually, the couple doesn't know how to communicate their feelings about money and they become angry, rather than analyzing whether their problems are realistic or emotional.

First of all, the money your husband earns is not "his" money; it belongs to both of you as long as you're his wife. Some men don't understand this and if your husband's one of them, then this should definitely be discussed. Agree on your goals for the future and work together on a budget that is realistic and fits the needs of both of you. Once this is done, then stick to it...even if you're depressed.

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — How do you know when there is something wrong with the pancreas?

DEAR READER — Sometimes you don't. The pancreas from animals is used as sweetbreads. The rounded head of the gland fits into the U-shaped first portion of the small intestine. The tail of the pancreas extends to the left. The organ is just under the stomach and rests against the spine.

The pancreas has two parts. The glandular substance that forms pancreatic juice drains through a tube into the small intestine. This juice contains enzymes to digest carbohydrates, fats and proteins, so it is pretty important. The islets of Langerhans seeded throughout the pancreas make up the other part. They are responsible for insulin formation and hormones that are carried by the blood to control your level of blood glucose.

The residual effects of damage to the pancreas can cause diabetes or it can limit the capacity of your body to digest foods. The latter problem is associated with frequent large bowel movements that contain lots of undigested fat. Weight loss and deficiencies of vitamins and minerals can occur because of absence of normal pancreatic juice and its important enzymes.

Sometimes there is an acute inflammation of the pancreas, called acute pancreatitis. When this happens there is usually severe pain, often starting in the pit of the stomach but usually generalizing to the entire abdomen and even the back. The patient may feel more comfortable sitting up rather than lying down.

There are many causes for acute and chronic pancreatitis. A viral infection may involve the pancreas. Mumps is one example which may involve the neck glands, testicles and also the pancreas. Gallstones with involvement of the bile duct may affect the drainage of the duct from the pancreas and set off inflammation of the pancreas.

Alcohol is a frequent cause of pancreatitis. Anyone with pancreatitis should not touch a drop of alcohol in any form. About half of the cases of pancreatitis have no known cause, infection, alcohol or gall bladder disease. The fourth most common cause of death from cancer in men is cancer of the pancreas.

Readers who want information about Gallstones and Gall Bladder Disease can send 50 cents for The Health Letter number 4-9. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Write to Dr. Lamb in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Q. "WHAT IS AN ERMINE?"
A. AN ERMINE IS REALLY A SHORT-TAILED WEASEL WHOSE BROWN SUMMER COAT HAS TURNED WHITE IN THE WINTER
IRENE BUÑO
SANTA ANA, MANILA

An ermine is really a kind of weasel whose brown fur has turned white in the winter. It is called an "ermine" only when its fur is white.

Weasels live in many parts of the world. But only in such cold northlands as Canada and Siberia can you find weasels that turn into ermine.

This foot-long animal, known as the short-tailed weasel, has a long, slender body and short legs.

In summer, the weasel wears a coat of silky brown fur. In the autumn, its brown hairs are gradually replaced by new white ones.

By winter, the short-tailed weasel has become a spotless white ermine, with a coal black tip on its tail.

Just the opposite happens in the spring, and the animal is once again a brown, short-tailed weasel. The result is a year-round camouflage.

Ermine is sometimes called "royal" fur. At one time in England, only royalty was allowed to wear this valuable fur. When used by royalty, ermine fur is called "miniver."

Opening lead — J ♥

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Today's hand was played by Harold Ogust of New York back in 1961. His five-notrump call was the grand-slam force designed to ask partner to bid seven if he held two of the three top honors in trumps. North had them and bid the grand slam.

West was certain that Ogust would not have bid the way he had unless he happened to be void of clubs. Hence, a club lead seemed useless and might well give declarer an important trick if dummy held the club king. It would have given declarer his contract on a silver platter for another reason. He could ruff in dummy and discard a diamond from his own hand.

Therefore, Marshall Miles of San Bernardino, Calif. opened the jack of trumps. It did him no good in the long run, but it did put quite a strain on declarer.

Harold took two rounds of trumps and played out four rounds of spades, while ruffing the last one in dummy. Then he stopped to count the hand. West had only two spades and one heart which left him a total of 18 diamonds and clubs. Hence, if anyone held three or four diamonds it would be West. Harold cashed his ace of diamonds, decided that Miles would have found a bid with eight clubs and so played him for seven clubs and three diamonds. Harold finessed against West and made the slam.

On Sports

Sportswriters are an unusual lot.

We cover athletics on all levels and tend to portray the more outstanding sports personalties as modern-day folk heros (particuarly on the professional level).

Why do we do this?

Well, for one reason, the American public itself idolizes athletes.

The other more subtle reason is that most sportswriters are frustated jocks.

Most of us competed in sports on the high school level or lower (junior high, Little League, etc) with limited success.

We ran the distance races in track, played soccer and TRIED OUT for the freshman basketball team.

However, most of us never really made it big, even on the high school level. That's one of the reasons we write about Joe Namath or O.J. Simpson instead of playing like them.

We generally lacked the ability or dedication to succeed in our favorite sport. (Anyone who quits the high school freshman basketball team after two days because of a sprained ankle has to be lacking in something).

As a result of our "failures" in sports in our youth we've tried to make up for it with modest ventures in athletics since then.

Some of us have had brief flings with weightlifting classes, other compete for church basketball teams and a few of us even tried to take part in swimming competition despite the fact we nearly drowned in the insane attempt.

It's a task for a sportswriter to stay in shape, or even to get in shape in the first place. Most of us are too far gone physically before we attempt to bench press 250 pounds, run the 100-yard dash, or compete in long distance marathon running.

Still, we keep trying. All sportswriters like sports or they wouldn't be in that field to begin with.

Being physically fit is a popular pastime in the United States now.

Despite the immense popularity of professional athletics, people are begining to get involved in particpants sports rather than just relying on television as their primary source of entertainment.

Distance running, tennis and snow skiing are among the fastest-growing particpant sports in the country.

The latter sport is beyond the financial means of most sportwriters so distance running and tennis are popular pasttimes with us.

Distance running is prehaps the biggest fad among sportswriters. Several writers on the Times staff have run long distance races in recent years with varying degrees of success.

Prehaps the reason distance running is popular with sportwriters is the fact virtually anyone can become a decent marathon runner if he (or she) put their minds to it and work out a lot.

The trick is to find the time and dedication to accomplish that goal.

After a person reaches their mid-twenties it becomes harder to stay in shape. Particuarly, if you've never really had much success athletically anyway.

And as far as sportswriters go, that applies to about 99 percent of us.

That's why we make our own heros.

George loses, in hospital

SAN JUAN, P.R. — Jimmy Young, clever and cool, knocked George Foreman down in the 12th round and scored a unanimous decision Thursday night in a major boxing upset.

The stunning loss knocked Foreman out of the top contender's role for the heavyweight title and severely damaged his hopes for a rematch with champion Muhammad Ali.

Foreman was taken from his dressing room on a stretcher and taken to a hospital in an ambulance.

Gil Clancy, one of Foreman's trainers, said he thought the former champ was all right. He said Foreman was suffering from heat and fatigue.

Young brought a sellout crowd of 10,000 in the Roberto Clemente Coliseum roaring to their feet in the 12th and final round.

With Foreman pressing him into a corner, Young unleashed a series of six solid head shots that sent the former champion reeling backward, obviously hurt.

Young turned tiger, leaping to the pursuit and landing a left and right that put Foreman down. Big George was up immediately, but referee Waldemar Schmidt ruled it a knockdown and gave Foreman a mandatory eight count.

Foreman lasted the round, but the crowd sensed the outcome as it cheered "Jimmy Young, Jimmy Young."

Schmidt scored it 118-111 for Young under the 10-point must system. Judge Cesar Ramos saw it 116-112 for Young and judge Ishmael Fernandez called it 115-114 Young.

The AP ruled it 116-110 for Young.

Young showed his coolness in the seventh round, when it looked as though Foreman would end the fight with a knockout.

In the first 15 seconds of the round, as Young backed along the ropes, Foreman unleashed a powerful left hook that stunned the Philadelphian, who reeled across the ring with Big George in pursuit.

For most of the first two minutes of the round, Foreman was in complete command, but could not land the punch to put Young down.

Young did not panic and did not try to fight his way out of trouble. His head gradually cleared and he came back in the final minute with several head shots that had the crowd cheering him.

Before the fight, Young had said the fifth round would be the decisive round. He was two rounds off, but he couldn't care less.

The vitory may have earned Young another shot at Ali, to whom he lost a disputed decision last year. Promoter Don King shouted from the ring, "We're going to make Young Ali."

When asked about a Foreman-Ali rematch, King said, simply, "We want to get George back into the ring as soon as possible."

While the loss does not rule out another Foreman-Ali fight, it certainly hurt Foreman's financial bargaining power.

Foreman, who seldom has had to go more than five rounds in his 47-bout career, proved to doubters that he could go the distance. But it was costly proof.

Foreman, who weighed 229, was paid $700,000 for the fight which was shown live on home television in the United States.

Young, who weighed 212, earned $250,000 as he continued his rags-to-riches rise that got its start with his disputed loss to Ali.

Young's greatest victory was his 21st against five losses and two draws. Foreman's defeat, which snapped a five-bout winning streak that began after his title loss to Ali in 1974, was his second against 45 wins.

Beigel sets mark as Dons breeze

Jim Beigel set a school record in the 330-yard low hurdles to spark Amador Valley High School's track team to an easy 114-22 win over Monte Vista in a East Bay Athletic League opener yesterday in Pleasanton.

Beigel ran the lows in 39.9, breaking the old school mark by Mike Mayes a year ago.

Jim also won the 120-yard high hurdles with a 15.4 clocking. Steve Peck was a double victor for the Dons in the sprints, clocking a 10.4 in the 100 and a 24.9 in the 220.

Another double winner for Amador Valley was John Sevo who won the long jump with a 20-9½ mark and the triple jump with a 40-5 leap.

The Dons won both relay races, clocking a 45.7 in the 440-yard race and a fine 3:35.2 in the mile event. Beigel ran a strong leg on the mile relay.

Amador Valley won the girls' competition easily as Wendy Behrbaum took a double victory for the Dons.

Behrbaum won the mile in 5:52.6 and the two-mile in 12:52.4.

The Granada - San Ramon and California - Livermore meets were postponed because of muddy field conditions.

San Ramon will host Granada Tuesday and Livermore will host California on the same day.

Judge backs Kuhn

CHICAGO — Commissioner Bowie Kuhn has virtual dictatorial powers over baseball, a federal judge ruled Thursday.

Judge Frank McGarr of U.S. District Court reached this conclusion in ruling against Oakland A's owner Charles O. Finley in his lawsuit against Kuhn.

McGarr ruled that Kuhn had the authority to void the $3.5 million sales last June of Oakland stars Joe Rudi, Rollie Fingers and Vida Blue.

The was no evidence of ill will or capriciousness on Kuhn's part, McGarr said.

"The fact that this case has commanded a great deal of attention in the vociferous world of baseball fans, and has provoked widespread and not always unemotional discussions, tends to obscure the relative simplicity of the legal issues involved," McGarr wrote.

All the rhetoric and name calling, he said, boiled down to a single issue. The current Major League Agreement and its history "are all to the effect that the commissioner has the authority to determine whether any act ... is 'not in the best interests of baseball' and ... to take whatever preventive or remedial action he deems appropriate," McGarr wrote.

MV edges Mats

Defending champion Monte Vista overcame a well-balanced Granada squad and took a close 201-204 decision over the Matadors in an East Bay Athletic League golf opener yesterday at Las Positas Golf Course.

In another EBAL match at Castlewood Amador Valley romped over California 224-245.

Carl Richardson fired a 38 to lead the Mustangs over Granada. However. Jeff Hoffman and Mike White of the Matadors followed with 39s. There were four players at 40; Leo Hoffman and Jerry Stefani of Granada and Dave Edwards and Dave Howe of Monte Vista.

Dons roll on

All the scoring came in the first inning as the Amador Valley Dons dumped Kennedy High School of Fremont, 5-1, in non-league baseball yesterday afternoon in Pleasanton.

Stocky right hander Mike Krikorian allowed the Titans just two hits — none before the fifth inning — and three walks while striking out eight to gain a complete - game victory for Amador.

Krikorian had his no-hitter broken up by a bizarre play in the fifth. Titan second baseman Randy Ready connected for an ominous, though straight-up, blow that Don thirdbaseman Matt Sweeney, who later erased the mistake with a base hit, called but allowed to fall on the skin of the diamond for a single.

Later, Mike Gonzales cracked a single to center.

A walk and an error cost Amador a shutout in the first inning. The Dons came back in the bottom half of the frame for hits by Bill Bevilacqua, George Ellard and Rob Wicks that combined with three JFK errors to allow the AV runs.

Walton too much for Warriors

OAKLAND — Robin Jones is not Bill Walton.

That's how Portland Trail Blazer coach Jack Ramsay sumed up the vegetarian's importance to his team after it had come alive in the second half to beat the Warriors 115-106.

Without Walton, the Trail Blazers are 5-12, but with him they are clearly the class of the Pacific Division.

That was clearly demstrated to the Warriors' 11th sellout crowd of 13,155 at the outset of the third quarter last night.

The Warriors led at halftime, 55-50, but did not score for a five-minute span, most of that to start the second half. And while the towering redhead can't take all the credit, his three blocked shots within ninety seconds certainly had to discourage Golden State.

"We trailed at the half because they got too many fast breaks," said Ramsay. "We reversed it by handling the ball better and getting back on defense quicker."

If that sounds like a hint that Walton wasn't the whole story, you're right.

Larry Steele, always a thorn in the Warriors' side, tallied 27 points, Lionel Hollins added 23 on an array of sailing dunk shots. Herm Gilliam and Dave Twardzik also contributed, throwing in some rally-killing hoops.

As usual, with Rick Barry and Phil Smith scoring below their averages, the Warriors had problems. Smith had 18 points and Barry only 11 which wasn't enough to support a 24-point outing by Jamaal Wilkes and some early heat from Gus Williams.

The Warriors play tonight in Los Angeles. The game can be seen on Channel 2.

Trojans belt Pokes

Livermore High baseball teams and lefthanded opposing pitchers have had one - sided results as of late.

For the second day in a row the 'Pokes were shutout by a portsider, this time Del Valle's Mark Moore, as the Trojans blanked the Cowboys 4-0 yesterday in Livermore.

Moore fanned 12 batters and walked just one, giving up three hits in going the distance. Just Wednesday, the "pokes were riddled by Washington's Mike Ricupito, who whiffed 13 batters and won by the same score.

The 'Pokes, now 0-3 in pre-season baseball action, face Liberty today in Brentwood in their continued quest for the initial win.

Greg Frates, Daryl Hansen and Kevin Fitzpatrick combined to pitch a commendable game for the 'Pokes, giving up just one earned run between them. Again, it was the 'Poke defense that fell through.

Del Valle scored twice in the third when an error kept them alive, loading the bases with two out after the miscue. Ralph Johnson provided the clutch hit, a single to right field that drove in both runs.

Brian Michaelson's triple and Clay Book's single netted anoth DV run off of Hanson in the fifth, while Book walked with one out in the seventh to start DV's final rally. Book advanced to second when Jim Farnsworth bounded out to new 'Poke hurler Fitzpatrick, but third-sacker Dav Dearborn thre away Tom Holstrom's grounder that would have been out number three, Book scoring on the play.

Fremont leads All-Stars

WALNUT CREEK — The Tigers roared and the East Bay Athletic League hid in a corner as the 1976-77 East Bay Prep Writers all-star basketball team was selected here Wednesday.

Tournament of Champions king Fremont High School of Oakland placed three unanimous choices on the first team while the valley league placed just two players, Joey Wujek of Granada and Tim Jenkins of Livermore, on the honorable mention list in a poll of eight reporters representing newspapers in Concord, Berkeley, Danville, Livermore, Oakland, Pleasanton and Walnut Creek.

Phil Barner, a 6-6 senior forward who has already been named to the McDonald's All-America team, 6-7½ senior center Greg Howard and 6-3 senior center-turned guard Ken Hardin represent Fremont on the first team.

Two other Oakland Athletic League players were also unanimous choices. McClymonds' 6-foot senior guard David Cornelius and Cliff Robinson, Castlemont's 6-8 senior center — and another McDonald's A-A — rounded out the O A contingent.

The only other consensus pick was 6-1 senior forward Tom O'Guinn of North Coast Section champ St. Joseph's of Alameda.

Ken Carter, who piled up a 21.3 scoring average and 168 assists with a less-than tremendous Richmond team, was the smallest player picked to the squad at 5-6. Albany's Byron Williams, easily the best player in the revamped Alameda County league, led the ACAL in scoring, was among the leaders in rebounding and fed off 123 assists.

The only two suburban players on the first team were Jim Swan of Northgate, a 6-5 senior center for the Diablo Valley titlists, and Bart Bauer of Campolindo, the NCS AA runner-ups' 6-4 junior forward.

Swan averaged 15 points and 10 rebounds per game for the Broncos while Bauer was all-Foothill for the second season in a row thanks to 57 per cent shooting from the floor and averages of 22 points and 10 rebounds per contest.

In addition to Bauer on the first unit, two juniors were picked to the second team.

Pittsburg's Mike Johnson, praised as the DVAL's most talented player, overcame defensive deficiencies to earn a berth in the second ten while Guy Williams of Bishop O'Dowd tallied 22 points per game and was a repeat on the all-Catholic team.

St. Mary's of Berkeley's Darell Mellion, Moreau of Hayward's Bob Telles, Stan Van Gundy of Martinez' Alhambra, Joe Doherty of Salesian of Richmond, Castlemont's Donald Seals, Bart Bowers of Kennedy of Richmond, Washington of Fremont's Kevin Flaig and Berkeley's James Foster rounded out the second team while eleven players earned honorable mention.

Ryan stars as Angels top A's

MESA, Ariz. — Nolan Ryan earned his first pitching victory of the baseball exhibition season Thursday, allowing two hits and striking out five batters in five innings as the California Angels downed the Oakland A's 8-1.

Ryan, who had lost two previous starts, walked none and left with a 5-0 lead. The Angels struck early, with two runs off Paul Mitchell in the first inning on Don Baylor's double which sent home Bruce Bochte and Bobby Bonds.

In the ninth, Bonds wrapped up the scoring with a two-run homer off Joe Coleman, who was making his first appearance for the A's.

Joe Rudi had two of the Angels' hits. The only Oakland player with two hits was Billy Conigliaro.

The Giants had tied the score with one run in the bottom of the ninth when Gary Thomasson walked, Rob Sperring sacrificed him to second and Johnny LeMaster singled down the third base line. San Francisco struck for three runs in the bottom of the 10th before going down for its third extra - inning loss.

Louis Delgado of Seattle and Ken Heintzelman of San Francisco joined Smith in collecting four hits apiece. The two teams totaled 39 hits.

Warren Oates stars as Charlie Allnot, a rough boat captain who must transport a missionary, played by Mariette Hartley, through African jungle in "The African Queen," a remake of the classic 1951 film Friday night at 8 p.m. on Channels 5 and 10.

Lou Won't Have Ted To Kick Around Now

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "On the last day, Lou says, 'Cool it, be happy, let's not have any tears.' The writers used words that expressed our own feelings. They gave us a gift."

Gavin MacLeod was talking about the last episode of "The Mary Tyler Moore Show," which airs at 8 p.m. Saturday night on Channels 5 and 10.

After seven years, 168 episodes and 26 Emmy awards, this classy — and classic — comedy series comes to an end. And it ends with a bang.

By now it should not be a surprise to anyone that a new owner buys WJM-TV in Minneapolis and decides that his only real asset in the newsroom is anchorman Ted Baxter, played by Ted Knight. Headed for the unemployment line are Mary Richards (Moore), Lou Grant (Edward Asner), Murray Slaughter (MacLeod) and Sue Ann Nivens (Betty White), and on the last day at work they need some morale boosting.

As a matter of fact, so did the cast. "That was a sad week. We were very close," said MacLeod. "It was the happiest time of my life."

The show was not edited in time for a preview, but if the script is any indication, it should be a very funny show and a fitting climax for the series. Valerie Harper ("Rhoda") and Cloris Leachman ("Phyllis") return for this final episode.

"It's wonderful that a show can close of its own volition, that the original writers can write the closing," said MacLeod a few days after the final show was filmed before an audience of invited guests.

"I don't think you'll ever see this kind of show again. It was right for its time."

Executive producers James L. Brooks and Allan Burns, who created the series, wrote the final script, along with producers Ed Weinberger and Stan Daniels, David Lloyd and Bob Ellison. Jay Sandrich, who directed the pilot and most of the shows over the seven years, directed.

MacLeod was most noted for his vicious villains when he was asked to read for a part in the MTM pilot. He was just back from making "Kelly's Heroes" in Yugoslavia and had twice played murderous Big Chicken on "Hawaii Five-O."

He was asked to read for for the part of Lou Grant, but MacLeod said he liked the part of Murray better.

Federal job aid accepted

PLEASANTON — A federal government project designed to give at least a temporary shot in the arm to local unemployed is being done all wrong and the city ought to reject the money from it, Council Member Frank Brandes said yesterday.

He is only one vote on the city council and that's just how it went Monday night, 4-1, when he tried to stop the city's acceptance of more than $60,000 of federal funds through the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act.

Brandes thinks that people in the council audience Monday night got the wrong idea of why he voted against the CETA funds for 10 local social service projects, including two for the city.

Contrary to what the audience may have thought, he does not oppose federal money to create jobs for the unemployed. Brandes' objection is that CETA goes about it wrong.

The $60,000 in funding (which may expand to $180,000) will come to the various social service agencies between April 15 and September 30. After that, people will be unemployed again, and that's no way to run a job scheme, said Brandes.

Instead, the money should go to create permanent jobs, both with the city and the private, non - profit social service agencies which need more personnel to deliver more and better social services, said Brandes.

Asked whether it would be naive for Pleasanton to reject the five and a half months' funding which, after all, helps some of the people for a short time, Brandes replied, "If all the communities would speak up about this, perhaps the federal government would change its mind. All the federal government sees now is everyone taking the money it offers."

Brandes also objected to a city request for more than $8,000 to hire two persons to assist Human Services Commission staffer Dianne McKenna in making an assessment of community needs.

The local volunteer bureau already has assessed community needs and McKenna ought to be able to take it from there without help, said Brandes.

HSC Chairperson Sharon Kosch defended the request Monday night, noting the commissinon has no budget of its own and McKenna is busy with other projects within the department of recreation and human resources, too.

Brandes yesterday also raised the question of whether the city will fund McKenna's position next year. She is being paid by ACAP/ ACTEB until October. Brandes will oppose refunding her position during the preliminary budget talks which will begin next month.

Council sets priorities for funding

PLEASANTON — The city council approved 10 local social service projects for funding from the federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act Monday.

The recommendations will be passed to ACAP/ ACTEB, the anti - poverty agency which screens money for the program.

Resurrection cookbook

DUBLIN — Ladies of the Lutheran Church of the Resurrection, 7557 Amador Valley Blvd., are compiling and publishing a cookbook of select recipes this spring, because every housewife prepares 1100 meals or more each year, and there is always a demand for recipes.

A tasting luncheon will be held at noon, Wednesday, May 4, at the church. A limited amount of tickets are available now and open to the public at $4 per person. That includes luncheon and the cookbook.

To obtain tickets, call Mrs. Robert Mattson, 846-3906, or Mrs. Fred Asmann at 829-5364. Books will be available at $3 each, without luncheon.

Heading the cookbook planning committee is Mrs. Walter Brock who held a Recipe Roundup, gathering hundreds of recipes from the church ladies. Proceeds from the sale of the book will be used to buy tables for the Sunday School.

Active Presbyterians

DUBLIN — "The Presbyterians" is a recent film depicting the life and background of the United Presbyterian Church in the USA which will be shown this Sunday at 9 a.m. for the Adult Inquirer's Fireside Forum at John Knox United Presbyterian Church, 7421 Amarillo Rd.

The Fireside Forum is one of five adult enrichment courses that meet during the 9 a.m. Christian Education Hour along with Bible classes for all ages of children and youth. A Youth Inquirer's Class also meets on Sunday with the Rev. Jim Griffes at 6 p.m. in the pastor's study.

On Wednesday, March 23, the church will host a Calvin Crest Camp promotion program beginning at 7:30 p.m. in the Christian Education Building, Room A.

Adventists on baptism

LIVERMORE — The baptism last month of President Carter's daughter Amy has sparked questions on the ancient practice of "total immersion" says the Rev. Ralph McGann, pastor of the Livermore Seventh-day Adventist Church.

Many people have never heard of any other method of baptism besides sprinkling, reports McGann. "Actually sprinkling is a recent addition to the Judeo-Christian tradition. Many Protestant churches have gone back to the original practice of total immersion, representing the burial of the old life of sin and resurrection in Christ."

Youth Rally

DUBLIN — Parkway Baptist Church, 7485 Village Parkway, will host the East Bay Baptist Association's monthly Youth Rally on Saturday, at 6:30 p.m.

On the Rally's agenda is a Sword Drill and Speaker's Tournament. Support of Home Missions will continue to be emphasized throughout the month of March in all Southern Baptist Churches, including Walk-a-thons.
